

Celebrate Wonder

Oh, I wonder how you made it all so good;
with a promise, did what you said you would.
Oh, I wonder why you're so good to me,
how you never leave.

Oh, I wonder when joy turns into praise,
and it welcomes everyone you've made.
Oh, I wonder how you open up my eyes;
you change my mind.

So, we celebrate 'cause we're not afraid
of the mystery.
With a little faith and a lot of grace,
we can celebrate wonder, wonder.

Oh, I wonder how I see you everywhere.
I remember, and it makes me want to share.
Oh, I wonder when I feel you as I serve,
how the last are first.

So, we celebrate 'cause we're not afraid
of the mystery.
With a little faith and a lot of grace,
we can celebrate wonder, wonder.

No matter where we look,
we find you glorious.
You made us very good,
and you made us curious.
So, whether in the soil
or in the stars above,
oh, we can see your face;
oh, we can feel your love.

But I wonder how justice leads to peace;
how we're different, but we're all family.
Oh, I wonder how you make me strong,
full of hope and a song.

So, we celebrate 'cause we're not afraid
of the mystery.
With a little faith and a lot of grace, we can celebrate wonder, wonder, wonder, wonder.
